Glenrothes & Falkland Cricket Clubs Sportsman's Dinner

Saturday 24th October 2015

Arnie Sidebottom
Former Yorkshire CCC cricketer & Man Utd footballer

Frank Robb
The most original & truly different act in Scotland just now

Arnie Sidebottom

Arnie was one of the last people to play both cricket (Yorkshire & England) and football professionally (Manchester United).

Sidebottom started off as a professional footballer, playing as a central defender.

He joined Manchester United as an amateur in January 1971, and turned professional in 1972.

Although he was quite effective in the air, he was only an average footballer, and this was highlighted during his time in place of injured Jim Holton during the 1974-75 season in the Second Division.

He did help United win the Second Division Championship in that season, but was soon transferred in January 1976 to Huddersfield Town, after making 20 appearances and scoring no goals for United. He later played for Halifax as well.

In 2007 he was voted in at Number 5 in The Times poll of the "50 Worst footballers (to grace the top division)."

Sidebottom switched to a cricketing career, and first played for Yorkshire in 1973, but did not win his cap till 1980. Test match cricket seemed to have passed him by when he went to South Africa as part of the rebel tour led by Graham Gooch in 1982, which also earned him a 3 year Test ban. He also played for Orange Free State.

After the ban ended, he was a surprise call up for the Trent Bridge Test in 1985, where he took 1 for 65 before limping off injured.

He continued playing for Yorkshire until 1991 and then went into coaching.

He now coaches football and cricket to pupils at Woodhouse Grove School, West Yorkshire.

His son, Ryan Sidebottom, who himself had a successful England career is currently playing for Yorkshire CC having previously moved from Yorkshire to Nottinghamshire.

“ When the England call eventually came in 1985, I'd be the first to admit that I was well past my sell-by date. ”

Frank Robb

“ Frank's hallmarks are versatility and the unexpected.

...the most original and truly different act in Scotland just now. ”

The Stage

Frank has penned three original albums Silver City, Watching Time and Bought and Sold.

He wrote and performed the original theme for the documentary In Search of Aberdeen and composed the music of the BBC Radio series The State of Scotland.

Entertainer Frank Robb has appeared throughout Scotland and internationally.

Delighting audiences with his eclectic mix of original songs and ad lib humour the ever popular Frank is often on the road and very rarely found in his home city of Aberdeen.

Armed with guitar and harmonica his talents as musician and singer songwriter ensure a powerful delivery of songs, often tailor made for the occasion.

His range includes Scottish, traditional and contemporary music - with performances at festivals in the UK and Europe.

Frank is celebrated as an after dinner performer where he excels as a comic foil with his razor-sharp wit and discerning observational comedy. Appearances include the launch of the DVD release of Men in Black, for Columbia Tristar Pictures.
